what is vital registration

Vital or civil registration is the system by which a government records the all events of its citizens and residents.

Vital registration creates legal documents which may be used to establish and protect the civil rights of individuals, as well as providing a source of data which may be compiled to give vital statistics. In contrast to censuses, which collect information on every member of a population at a single point in time, vital registration systems collect information on individuals as demographic events occur. You may also see 'vital registration' called civil registration, which is the preferred term of the UN (see textbox to the right). Many vital registration systems record births, deaths, foetal deaths, marriages, divorces and adoptions, as well as recording information on the individual who experiences the event, such as age, religion, occupation etc.
